

Loose skin and bags under the eyes

Loose skin and pockets of fat above or below the eyelids can be removed with blepharoplasty surgery. The incisions made to access these areas heal exceptionally well; in fact, they become virtually imperceptible.

Common cosmetic procedures in Oculoplastic Surgery

The eyes are often the first part of the face to reveal visible signs of aging. In fact, studies have shown that the eye area is one of the biggest factors affecting how old a person looks.

Most age-related eyelid changes can be treated with botox injections, fillers and/or blepharoplasty surgery.

Consult our oculoplastic specialist for what intervention(s) would best suit you.

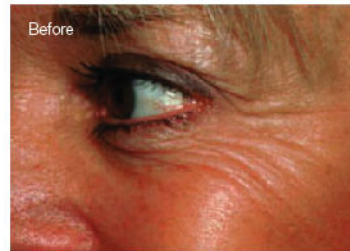

Wrinkles

Dynamic wrinkles result from the dynamic nature of your face. A great anti-aging strategy for this problem is regular Botox injections. Botox is a safe, widely tested and applied, effective, and reversible treatment. Botox is being used more and more frequently as a preventative measure as well.

- Frown lines parallel vertical lines that form between the eyebrows

- Crow's feet: lines that form around the eyes

- Horizontal wrinkles: lines that run lengthwise across the forehead
